Here we are

Contracts have decreased in comparison to last semester

Housing and Meal contracts for the spring semester have dropped 10 percent due to December graduates, academic dropouts and people transferring.

"We usually experience about a 10 percent drop in housing contracts, this year the number is 2400, down from 2665," said Bruce Wake, Director of Housing.

Although some problems have occurred in the residence halls, none have been of major importance. "In some places we've experienced heating problems but those are getting taken care off as the problems occur," said Wake.

Meal contracts have also dropped about 10 percent this semester from 2534 to 2280.

"It's certainly an inconvenience that the union went out but students adjusted quite well," said Carl Timm, Food Service Director. "We are back to about a 70 percent participation at every meal, which is average."

An increase in both fees are projected for the next academic year, due to inflation and higher salaries.

Election to be held

Student Senate obtains goals

The Northwest Missouri State University Student Senate accomplished many of the goals it had set for the 1981 fall semester, said Linda Borgedalen, Student Senate president.

"Among the goals that the Senate was able to achieve were the re-establishment of some University traditions. Also a reduced fee for off-campus parking and a Student Senate newsletter that was distributed among University students and faculty were achieved," Borgedalen said.

"The Senate, working with state and local officials, had an input towards improving the safety conditions of U.S. Highway 71 bridge, two miles north of Clearmont, Mo., where two NWMSU students were killed last fall," Borgedalen said.

coordination with the Missouri Collegiate Student Government Association, was instrumental in Governor Christopher Bond's recommendation for NWMSU to receive a 16.9 percent budget increase for the 1983 fiscal year.

"I think that it helped that we sent letters and went to Jefferson City to let them know that we, as students, are interested in our education," Borgedalen said.

"The Senate has prepared a list of goals for the 1982 spring semester. Some of the projects they plan to undertake this semester include making a campus directory, revising the campus judicial system, instigating a "Dead Week" before the week of finals and a student survey system," Borgedalen said.

"It's good to set goals instead of just flowing through the year," Borgedalen said. "We've improved on communications with the students and administration this year. The senators have worked hard and want to keep accomplishing things and have a successful year with Student Senate."

"If anyone has any ideas for Student Senate projects, we'll gladly take ideas," Borgedalen said.

"There are currently three positions open in the Senate," Borgedalen said. "Offices are open for the position of junior class president and two sophomore senators. If anyone is interested in running in the Feb. 2 election, stop by the Student Senate office in the Union for more information," Borgedalen said.

"People are always welcome to attend Senate meetings," Borgedalen said. "Meetings are every Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. in the Sycamore Room of the Union."

Housing, food and fees to be raised

Regents approve new increases for 1982-1983 academic year

By Cathy Crist

An increase in student fees, housing and food contracts was the highlight of the Wednesday Board of Regents meeting held in the J.W. Jones Union.

The incidental fees will be increased by $85 for the in-state student and $95 for the out of state student.

University President Dr. B.D. Owens said that the new increase should generate approximately $775,000 into the University.

"This amount (the fee increase would bring) added to Governor Bond's recommendation of $1.5 million additional proposed revenue makes the total monies coming in to somewhere near $2.3 million, close to the $2.6 million that would suffice our financial need."

"The overall increase in fees, housing and food is 15.7 percent," Owens said. "This fee increase will be larger than in past years, but I feel that we need it to maintain the quality of this institution."

"A lot of the fee increase will be put back into the salaries at the University," Owens said.

The increase came as a result of lack of money in all University budgets.

"We have been attempting to operate all University budgets at the same level we did in 1978," Owens said. "But there is a need of three and one half times greater than in 1978. Budgets that we have no control over, such as transportation, utilities etc. have been only increased to meet the need."

Dr. Richard Fulton's Public Opinion and Propaganda class conducted a scientific sample of how students would feel about an increase prior to the proposed fee increase.

"Our sample used fairly good technique in finding out how students acceptability to a fee increase would be," Fulton said. "We found that most students would pay a $100 per year increase, but at the mentioning of $200 there was a definite slack in opinion."

Student Senate President, Linda Borgedalen, said that she felt students realized an increase would be necessary.

"I think that students do realize that there will be a fee increase. Most students are aware that there will be increases in needs," Borgedalen said.

New fees for the 1982-83 year have in-state students paying $360 and out of state students paying $560. Graduate students will be paying $360 regardless of residency.

Housing contracts will be raised to $420 for all private rooms in all halls a double occupancy room will be $280 in 1982-83. Currently, the highrise residence halls are more expensive than other residence halls. With the new rates, all housing, highrise and lowrise, pay the same amount for private and double occupancy rooms.

Meal contracts for 1982-83 will raise $40-$60 depending on the desired plan.

For a 20 meal plan, now costing the student $435, an increase of $40 will be added for a total of $475 in '82-'83. A 15 meal plan will raise $50 up to $450 next year and the 10 meal plan will increase $60 from the $365 to $425.

"These increases will put NWMSU at the top of the state schools for fees," Owens said.

Other agenda items passed included the work schedule for University employees. The schedule will stay as it is now with 37½ hours four days each week.

Resignations and retirements of University employees were also approved by the Board.

It was also decided to give University employees time off for Jury Duty.

A late fee assessment policy which was designed to provide operational guidelines in determining whether late registration fees should be assessed. Students registering for off-campus classes, and on-campus classes during regularly scheduled off-campus registrations will not be assessed the $10 late registration fee. This assessment ensures the graduate extension program at Missouri Western State College which started one week later than NWMSU.

Another item on the agenda that was passed was the Retrenchment policy for the faculty. This policy ensures that all faculty will be informed before any decision in growth, realignment or reduction of faculty takes place.

Reports were given by various committees and divisions.

Dr. John Mees, vice president of student affairs, gave the newly accumulated, not completed, enrollment figures for NWMSU.

"We are running 5 percent ahead of this time last spring in enrollment," Mees said. "Our current enrollment is at 4,415 compared to 4,266 last spring. Housing contracts are up two percent at 2,400 and ARA Food contracts are slightly increased at 2,200. Enrollment is still in progress, so this is a preliminary report."

Other Board action saw the Bylaws accepted and the continuation of employing Ernst and Whinney as University Auditors.

Honors program changes plan

Northwest Missouri State University's Honors Program has undergone numerous changes during the school year, said Dr. David Slater, director of the Honors Program.

"Most of the changes are not actually new, rather the utilization of already existing regulations," Slater said.

"One of the biggest changes of the Honors Program is the lengthening of it from just summer sessions to a full year program," Slater said. "Also, in the planning stages is a two year curriculum for honor students."

"This summer, two classes, Energy in the Environment and Politics of Natural Resources, will be taught interdependently," Slater said. "Also being taught the second session this summer will be Problems in Freedom of Expression."

"The master course file has been changed to help distinguish which honors course fulfills which general education requirement," Slater said.

"New members have been appointed to the Honors Council. The faculty representatives are Dr. John Hopper and Dr. Patrick Wynne. Roxanna Swaney is the student representative," Slater said. "Also on the board is Dr. George English, vice president of academic affairs."

"One of the biggest drawbacks of the Honors Program is that the faculty are not proposing enough general requirements for the program," said Slater. "More team and interdisciplinary courses are being planned."

Slater said that selections for the fall Honors Program will be determined by Feb. 1.

Students are a large part of local merchants' profit

By Stu Osterthun

Northwest Missouri State University plays a major role in Maryville's economy. Nowhere is the absence of students felt more than at the fast food chains and convenience stores.

During the three week Christmas break, many local businesses felt the effect of not having 5,000 students in town. Naturally, a lot of businesses suffered.

Sieve Pulis, assistant manager of Hardee's, said business slacked off at different times over break.

"Right after students left, we weren't really hurt but because of the Christmas shoppers," he said. "We were hit the hardest after Christmas. Our business probably dropped off 50 percent. The students are a big plus to us."

Pulis said spring break doesn't present such a decline on sales.

"People gear up for the warm weather of spring and more people get out so the lack of student business doesn't really affect us at that time," Pulis said.

David Skoglund has been manager of Kentucky Fried Chicken for approximately two-and-one-half months. He said that, during the last break, the weather played a big part in getting customers also.

"It's hard to say if the Christmas break hurt us because we had bad weather over break," Skoglund said. "We are affected mostly on Sunday nights when school is in session because during school there is a lot of car traffic."

Debbie Buhoit, manager of the Maryville Pizza Hut, said Sunday night sales went down during break.

"You can usually tell on Sunday nights since the cafeteria isn't open," she said. "I would say that our sales went down 20 to 30 percent over break. The weather also had a lot to do with it."

The three week break also affected grocery stores as well. Easter Foods experienced some decline in sales, but manager Bob Starnes said the decrease wasn't much.

"The holidays compensated for it (Christmas break)," Starnes said. "We had a lot of customers during the holidays."

Starnes said that he doesn't cut back on any items stocked on the shelves when students are gone.

"It makes a difference when the students get back," he said. "The University might be one-third of the population, but we also have to cater to the other two-thirds of the city of Maryville."

This program will place 400 volunteers in land management positions in national parks, forests, resource management areas and private conservation areas throughout the United States.

Positions are offered on a competitive basis for men and women 18 years of age or older. The only prerequisite needed for eligibility is interest in the program. Positions are currently offered for the summer and fall seasons.

In the program, men and women will spend eight to 12 weeks performing projects similar to those of professional Park and Forest Service personnel.

Interested people should send a postcard requesting a "Listing of Positions" and an application from the Student Conservation Association, Inc., Box 550C, Charleston, N.H. 03603 or call 603-826-5206.

Twenty-eight earn master's

Twenty-eight students received Master's Degrees from Northwest Missouri State University following completion of the 1981 fall semester, said Linda Girard, acting registrar.

Of the 28 students, 14 received Master of Science in Education degrees, 12 received Master of Business Administration degrees and two were presented with the Master of Science degree and the Master of Arts degree respectively.

The 1981 December graduates will be able to participate in formal commencement ceremonies in May.

New rush identification policy tries to isolate the interested.

A new policy of identifying men interested in rush has gone into effect this semester.

"Men interested in going through rush were required to sign a list during the last week of the fall semester and the first week of this semester. The list was distributed to each fraternity in order for them to have only those men on the list attending the fraternity functions," said Jim Wyant, sponsor of Inter-Fraternity Council.

The advance identification of potential prospects is being used to eliminate those men who are not truly interested in pledging. The list will also allow for more control over fraternity functions. Each fraternity will be allowed to add five additional names to the list before Bid Day on Feb. 1, 1982.

"Smokers started Jan. 18, 1982, and will continue through Jan. 28. During nights of smokers, quiet hours will be enforced between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. This means the men in the fraternity having the smoker will be the only ones allowed to speak to the rushees," said Jeff McNeely, President of Inter-Fraternity Council. "The quiet hours are designed as a means of common courtesy to all fraternities."

McNeely said the policy of dead nights is also being enforced this semester. "No social functions will be held on Thursday nights to allow freshman rushees to adapt to college and fraternity life."

Around 300 men have signed the spring rush list and bids may be picked up in the Student Union on Feb. 1.

Frucht writes of Danube river in soon to be released book

Dr. Richard Frucht, assistant professor of history at Northwest Missouri State University, recently completed a book, Dunarea Noastra-Romania, the Great Powers and the Danube Question, 1914-21, which will be released by the Columbia University Press early this summer.

The book is an outgrowth of Frucht's doctoral dissertation. Ten months of study in Romania and then an additional five months of work in the United States were required for the completion of the book.

"The book is primarily a diplomatic study of international status of the Danube River during World War I," said Frucht. The river served as Romania's economic lifeline, the country depended on it for the export of primary products.

There have been no books written since the 1920s on the Danube question. During the Twenties only two books were written and they were not able to use some of the documents that are now available, said Frucht.

The book, which is around 255 pages, will probably be used mainly by specialists in this area and European historians, said Frucht.

Efforts recognized in reception by administrators

The Northwest Missouri State University administration are to be commended on the efforts that have been made to alleviate faculty/staff and administration problems.

Tuesday evening, the administrators hosted an informal tea gathering for anyone who wanted to come and meet the members of the Board of Regents as well as the administrators of NWMSU.

This opportunity was set up for the benefit of both administrators and the University population. Unfortunately for those concerned, few of the guests showed up.

The Faculty Senate had wanted a chance to "get to know the Regents," when things were bad and their salaries weren't being increased, when given this chance, a small number of all faculty showed up for this gathering.

Those who did go found that the personalities of people can be found if given a chance. The assumption that the administration and Regents are people of a different nature is both true and false.

These people are different because they are the overseers of this University, yet they are not above asking for help and understanding problems that arise.

The camaraderie that has been shown by faculty members that are genuinely concerned about this University and the administrators whose job it is to see that NWMSU runs as smoothly as possible is an effort in unification of ideas and positions.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Alumni House is available

For the past year and a half the Alumni at Northwest Missouri State University have owned a home at 640 College Avenue. The house itself, we feel, is a very big plus to the University and the campus faculty. The house is available for use to students, faculty and staff as well as members of the community.

This past Christmas, the Delta Zeta sorority used the house for their Christmas formal. Because of the restriction placed upon the house by the Alumni, no liquor was allowed at this party. I must say that the ladies of Delta Zeta did a tremendous job in handling that situation. Not only as the Alumni Director, but as a fraternity sponsor, I have found it extremely difficult for a sorority or a fraternity to have a party without the use of liquor. The Delta Zetas took a chance and tried a different approach and made it work! I think they should be applauded for their efforts and the example that they set.

We would definitely encourage any other student organization to use the Alumni House if they have a function for which this house would meet their needs. If other student organizations can conduct themselves as the Delta Zeta sorority did, then I feel the House will become a commodity that will be a very big plus for all of our University family.

Sincerely yours,

Vinnie Vaccaro
Executive Secretary
Alumni Relations

The Stroller

Campus Carouser "Rushes" around

Well, it's that time of the semester again, time for your hero to indulge himself to his limits at the expense of others in hope that he will join their organization. He is, of course, talking about "RUSH," the first three weeks of each term spent in a drunken frenzy.

The eternal rushee once again is going through the motions of saying he is interested in the Greek system. All the time while guys are pouring beer down his throat and having preppy sorority girls asking yours truly to dance, he is think of all the money that is being wasted on your hero.

The Inter-Fraternal Council thought they had pulled the cord on all of the professional rushees but they were wrong. The new sign-up list posed no problem for this selfish guy because it did not cost anything to put his John Hancock on their ever-so important list.

This new list meant that every fraternity would invite him to their "social functions" instead of crashing the parties like he had to do in the past. Your hero felt a new sense of pride when he received five invitations for parties the first weekend back, unfortunately they all were for the same night.

After finally choosing which place your hero would bless with his presence, he got ready for what he hoped would be an exciting evening. After purchasing The Preppy Handbook over Christmas, he was all decked out ready for the big night.

Walking up to the door and showing the invite to the same people that had been throwing your hero out of their parties was a wonderful feeling for the prospective pledge.

Your hero spent the night answering the same questions to every guy that came up. What's your major, Where are you from and the ever popular Are you serious about pledging a fraternity. Towards the end of the night the Stroller was beginning to sound like a robot answering these in-depth questions.

Females couldn't resist your man, the same ones he had seen in the past ignore him were now long lost lovers. With all of this new-found attention, your man could only hope that rush would last throughout the year.

Dancing the night away and drinking himself into oblivion while his homework sat untouched back in his room, your B.M.O.C. was the hit of the "social function."

In two weeks when bid day is upon us and heaven as your man knows it is gone, your hero will have only memories. The fraternity men will realize that once again they were taken advantage off and shun your man again. The beautiful coeds that were melting in his hands have turned ice-cold towards him. But your hero has memories of when he was the hit of the party and realizes that those goodtimes are all over, that is until next semester when he gets to go through rush again.

Smith chosen Miss Sidney Iowa Rodeo

By Debbie Cowden

Many people don't realize what it's like to compete in a contest at a national level, but Jennifer Smith, Northwest Missouri State University sophomore, has had first-hand experience.

Smith entered the Queen Contest at the Sidney Iowa Rodeo in August of 1980 and was chosen Miss Sidney Iowa Rodeo. Winning the title allowed Smith to automatically become Miss Rodeo Iowa in the summer of 1981.

Smith is no novice when it comes to the sport of rodeo. She started riding and showing horses at the age of three while her parents were traveling on the United Rodeo Association Circuit.

As Miss Sidney Iowa Rodeo, Smith made promotional appearances at the AK-SAR-BEN Rodeo and Races in Omaha, Neb. Smith was also one of the judges of the First Annual Rodeo Queen Contest in Charlotte, Iowa.

After becoming Miss Rodeo Iowa, Smith spent most of her time preparing for the Miss Rodeo America Contest that was held Dec. 1 through 7 in Oklahoma City, Okla. The contest, which is similar to the Miss America Pageant, allowed contestants from the fifty states to promote the sport of rodeo and act as a spokesperson for the sport at a national level.

The competition, which was held at the Oklahoma State Fairgrounds, was judged in the divisions of horsemanship, personality, appearance and interviews.

There were three judges for each division, said Smith. It was really interesting because one of the judges, Joyce Loomis, was a former Miss Rodeo America, and the pageant director, Dorothy Alexander, was former Miss America judge.

"It was a very busy week, but I had a good time and I met a lot of girls," said Smith. Throughout the week-long competition Smith said the contestants participated in various activities including modeling for Wrangler's Western Wear and department stores in Oklahoma City. They made promotional visits and attended receptions nightly.

Girls interested in entering a rodeo queen contest at the state level, Smith said, should be serious about the competition and know as much about rodeo as possible.

Smith said the Miss Rodeo Iowa 1983 Contest will probably be moved to a more central location in the state in order to encourage more girls to become involved in the competition.

"Iowa doesn't promote the sport of rodeo like some of the other states," said Smith. Smith feels that more people should become involved in the support and promotion of the sport in order for the state pageant to expand.

Although Smith didn't place in the national contest, she felt it was a good experience and strongly encourages those interested in promoting the sport to enter.

New fad piercing its way onto campus

By Cristy Clauch

Ear piercing for men has been in practice since ancient African tribes pierced the ears of their bravest warriors. Even the sailors of old marked the return from a dangerous voyage by piercing an ear.

More recently, celebrities from Kenny Rogers to Rod Stewart have adorned an ear with an earring. The rage has long been seen in New York and on the West Coast, so it's no big surprise that it has finally reached NWMSU.

Marsha Merriett of Time and Gift in Maryville said she has had 15-20 male students come in to get an ear pierced since the beginning of this school year. "Most of them have been football players. They usually come in pairs; they rarely come in by themselves."

Peer pressure, Ms. Merriett said, is probably a large factor in the decision to get it done. But students also cite having a non-conformist attitude and a want of just plain fun as other reasons to get an ear pierced.

"I did it just to be different, just to blow somebody's mind away," said Jim Finn, a student at Northwest. Finn has sported his gold stud for only a couple of weeks. He said a friend talked him into it while he was drunk.

Reactions have been varied to his pierced ear, he said. "Some people think it's neat. Some people think it's gay." He said his parents didn't say anything, but he doesn't think his sisters will like it.

Rod Wilhelm, of Delta Sigma Phi, on the otherhand said, "I'm not going to tell them. I'm not going home for a long time."

Wilhelm has also had his ear pierced for only a short time. He went alone to have it done, and isn't sure why he did it except that he "thought it would be unique." "A lot of people ask why," he added.

Of course a pierced ear is not always permanent. In fact, the tiny opening can only be expected to last for life if the earring is not removed for more than 24 hours at a time during the initial six months. However, prolonged disuse will also cause the hole to close.

And remove it he did, said Bill Bing of Delta Chi, after only two short weeks. Bing pierced his ear about two years ago when, he said, he and 12 of his friends decided they "were either going to get an ear pierced or get tattoos."

But he took the earring out soon after, "because it looked kind of gay." He says he will not have it done again.

The permanency of a pierced ear, the femininity of it to some and the possibility it is only a passing fad are some of the reasons most men do not care to pierce their ears.

Jeff Brouse, a history major, would not consider an earring because, "I would look stupid with a pierced ear." He said it would also be inappropriate since he is planning a career in the Marine Corps.

He also dislikes the permanency of it. "I don't want to put a hole in my body. It's too permanent," he explained. Brouse said he doesn't mind an earring, on other men, except that to him it looks "mighty foreign."

Another student who would not pierce his ear is Butch Reid of Alpha Kappa Lambda. "I'm just not real crazy about it," he said. "I think it's just a fad." Reid said he thinks men pierce their ears because "a lot think it looks macho. But some do it to be real wild and crazy."

Still, some men are playing with the idea of piercing their ears. History major John Standerford, for example, would not rule out having his ear pierced, since "a lot of people are doing it." What has deterred him from having it done so far, however, is once again the permanency of it.

Most men with an earring, or who are considering one, can easily see themselves still wearing it in five years. But after that it becomes a little sketchy. Rod Wilhelm said that for him, "it depends on what the styles and trends are."

Jim Finn said, "I may take it out in a week or keep it for a real long time."

The real long time wearers of earrings are of course women, and they certainly have opinions of the men who wear them. Some women see wearing an earring as being macho, while others like the non-conformist angle of it. Still it seems most women dislike the thought of men wearing earrings.

"I think it's sort of stupid," said Marilyn Pisel, an IRC representative. However, she said, "I kind of admire guys who get their ears pierced because they're not afraid to be different. I just think it's something we'll have to get used to."

Stephanie Horton, another IRC rep., has actually pierced ears for men before as part of her job as a jewelry store clerk. She found the men were "really embarrassed to sit down and have everybody watch them." She doesn't mind earrings on men. "It just depends on the guy. It shows in their personality."

One woman claimed that she would rather have her boyfriend pierce his ear than get a tattoo. In fact many people compare the two actions.

Interestingly enough, most men with a pierced ear totally rule out getting a tattoo. While many who won't pierce their ear will readily consider a tattoo. As one student put it, "Oh, tattoos are alright, as long as they're not obscene or anything. I think we've just become accustomed to tattoos."

And it seems as though we'll become accustomed to men getting their ears pierced as well.

'Ghost Story'

Little similarity between novel and movie

By Helen Leeper

It is nearly impossible to make a comparison between the Peter Straub novel "Ghost Story" and the movie version that is directed by John Irvin, with a screenplay by Lawrence D. Cohen. The only similarities appear to be the existence of an aged quartet of story tellers known as the Chowder Society, and a beautiful but elusive female ghost that returns to take her revenge.

The members of the Chowder Society, whose main purpose is to try to frighten themselves by meeting regularly to tell ghost stories, are portrayed by such screen enigmas as John Houseman, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Fred Astaire and the late Melvin Douglas. It is unfortunate that such talent goes untapped by a somewhat unemotional script that leaves the actors uttering some very meaningless lines.

The movie is not, however, a total loss. Especially if your heart contains even a flutter of romance. British actress Alice Krige, who is somewhat of a screen newcomer, portrays the spectral siren with a graceful eeriness. It seems that it is this grace that allows the movie to exude some of the same mood that prevails with Krige's corresponding character in the novel.

While this flick keeps you concentrating to follow the storyline, the conclusion is anti-climactic and a bit of a disappointment.

The main problem with this movie is that much of Straub's original story and characters have been changed or omitted. The original story probably could have stood the transference to the screen with only a few revisions in details.

It is advisable to see this picture if you are slightly romantic and prefer spectral beauty to mind bending horror. If you should choose to see it, it is also advisable that you do so before reading the novel, which is far more chilling and much more fully developed, as is the case with most screen adapted novels.

The book presents characters that are forced to face a terror that is more imposing than a lovely spectre.

If you've already read the book, the movie will probably prove to be a big disappointment. It could only leave you confused and wondering why the movie and the book even bear the same title.

Eating Out

New fast food alternative turns out a tasty choice

By Teresa Kincald

As college students, it seems we're constantly searching for the restaurant that will satisfy our hunger without emptying our pockets. In Maryville, we have fast food chains that help, but food at these establishments soon becomes old. Our stomachs want that taste of a home cooked meal.

Looking beyond MacDonald's and Hardee's, my friends and I found Hillbilly Barbecue, and, to our surprise, it was just what we were looking for.

Upon entering, we were made to feel comfortable. George Mann, the owner and cook, wasn't busy at the time and was out of the kitchen visiting with his waitresses.

Our waitress, Willie Bowness, readily answered all our questions as to what would be the best choice. Besides having barbecued food, the restaurant also offers Mexican food and spaghetti.

I decided on a burrito and an order of fried mushrooms. The burrito was huge and well worth its $1.85 price tag. I also received a generous portion of mushrooms that were just as tasty plus I got a free refill of my drink.

My bill came to $3.55, but I received a 10 percent discount because I'm a student. After paying, I talked with Mr. Mann. He showed me a list of luncheon specials that made me wish I would have eaten here sooner. Each day there is something different. Tuesday, for example, is Buddy Day. Buy one sandwich at the regular price and buddy pays half price.

After operating a bar and restaurant for 27 years in Kansas City, Mr. Mann opened Hillbilly Barbecue in May of 1981.

"I make everything from scratch," he said. "I use nothing but hickory wood in cooking."

Hillbilly Barbecue is open from 11:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The restaurant is closed on Mondays.

Album Review

The Go-Go's album Brings in new beat

By Cristy Claunch

Riding along the crest of New Wave music is the five-member, all female group, the Go-Go's.

Named by People magazine as one of the most intriguing bands of 1981, the Go-Go's have sold over 175,000 copies of their debut album, Beauty and the Beat.

This album features fast, fun, danceable New Wave music. The songs are all written by the Go-Go's and it's almost impossible not to want to sing along.

Side one features their hit single "Our Lips Are Sealed," which the group performed on "Saturday Night Live" this season. Other songs on side one include "Lust To Love" and "This Town." Both are fast-paced tunes reminiscent of the popular former ladies group the Shirelles.

Side two includes the Go-Go's dance-club hit "We Got the Beat," and the amusing song "Skidmarks On My Heart" ("You sure know how to hurt a girl/ Fewer hugs and no kisses/ Just water for your carburetor/ And bearings for your pistons").

The Go-Go's are Belinda Carlisle, Jane Wiedlin, Gina Schock, Kathy Valentine and Charlotte Caffey. These girls, whose campy style bounces, boasts and teases, are definitely on the way up.

Having toured both the U.S. and Europe, the quintet has made appearances on "American Bandstand" and "Saturday Night Live." But perhaps the Go-Go's biggest date as of yet was an opening for the Rolling Stones in Illinois.

'Cats beat tigers; lose to Rolla

By Dwayne McClellan

Northwest Missouri State University behind the heroics of the "sixth" and "seventh" men Anthony Darby and Tim Shelby took off to a 16 point first half lead and never looked back as they rolled over the Lincoln Blue Tigers 95-64 last Monday night at Jefferson City.

Earlier the 'Cats dropped their first MIAA game to the Missouri-Rolla Miners 76-70 at Rolla in a game that the 'Cats just didn't play well.

The bench roles that have been played by Darby and Shelby have not gone unnoticed by head coach Lionel Sinn as he credits them with providing the spark that the 'Cats have so often needed this year.

"They (Darby and Shelby) have been in circumstances when they are out and they have to come in off the bench," Sinn said. "Some others are starting and they have come off the bench and given us the momentum and the offensive push we have needed," Sinn said.

In the second half of the Lincoln game Shelby was unstoppable as he hit on 13 points on the night. "He was as hot as any player that I've seen in some time," Sinn said. "Darby was almost the same way," the third year coach said.

In the Lincoln game, the Blue Tigers took a 2-0 lead but the 'Cats came back and tied it up at 2-2 and 4-4, then made it a rout as they ran at will against the Blue Tigers.

Northwest opened up their biggest lead of the first half, 43-27, on Darby's bucket at the buzzer. In the second half the 'Cats kept the barrage of points going on as they achieved their biggest lead of 38 points, 92-54, with 2:40 left in the game.

Victor Coleman, a 6-4 soph from Danville, Va., shared the games scoring honors for the 'Cats with Phil Smith, a 6-5 senior forward from Cheyenne, Wyo. They each poured in 15 points for the 'Cats. Darby had 13 points.

Smith led the team in rebounds as he pulled down six and hit on six of six shots from the field. Darby hit on six of seven shots while Gordon was five for five.

Lincoln's Blue Tigers were led by Kenny Lewis' 23 points and Avery Gibson with 12 points for the Tigers who drop to 6-6 overall and 0-4 in the MIAA.

As a team the 'Cats hit on 37 of 66 from the field for 56 percent. The 'Cats were 21 for 33 from the charity stripe for a 63 percent. Lincoln outrebounded the 'Cats 55-41 but Northwest committed only seven turnovers to 15 for the Blue Tigers.

With the game against Lincoln, all 12 players were able to see action thus making it difficult for Sinn to pick any one player as they all played well.

"Everybody contributed," Sinn said. "Everybody contributed hard as we had something to prove to ourselves. Monday night we could have beaten almost anybody," Sinn said.

With the lopsided score, Sinn himself didn't believe the score of the final margin and still wasn't sure of victory until the lead climbed to 20 and above.

"After it got over 20, I felt we had it won," Sinn said. "I really didn't believe it but everything was going well for us then."

Saturday night was a different story for the 'Cats as they just didn't play well and as a result dropped their first league game to the Miners from Rolla.

Before the game with Northwest, Miner coach Billy Key thought that his club would have to play a real hard game in order to win.

"Northwest will be very tough as they have almost everyone back from last year's team," Key said. "They also have one of the biggest teams in the conference, so we will have to work really hard to do a good job on the backboards," Key said.

And work hard they did, as the Miners, behind the MIAA's second leading scorer Rickie Cannon's 23 points, ended the 'Cats five game winning streak with only the fourth Bearcat loss in 16 games.

Rolla broke a 6-6 tie by jumping to a 16-9 lead in the opening minutes, but the 'Cats, led by Gordon rallied to take a 23-18 lead with 4:31 left in the half. Gordonscored eight of his 12 points during the 14-2 Northwest rally. The Miners came back and forged ahead 30-27 at the half.

Northwest fought back to tie the game, 45-45, with 10:35 to go, but UMR countered with hoops by Jeff Davis and Joey McDowell to take a 49-45 lead with 9:42 left and the 'Cats were never able to tie the game up again. Cannon's breakaway layup with 1:28 left gave the Miners their biggest lead, 72-62 and a late 'Cat comeback was a little too late and not enough.

Victor Coleman led the losing cause, as he pumped in 16 points followed closely by Shelby with 14 points. Phil Smith also poured in 10 points to aid the 'Cats.

The 'Cats, led by Shelby's 11 rebounds, did win the rebounding war 40-31 over the Miners.

After Cannon, McDowell and Zol Singelton had 12 points apiece for the Rolla squad. Jeff Davis had 10 points and led his team in rebounds with 11.

The 'Cats hit on 30-63 from the field for 47 percent while Missouri-Rolla hit on 31-56 for 55 percent. At the charity stripe, the 'Cats were 10-18 for 55 percent while the Miners hit on 14-17 for 82 percent.

"Rolla had a mission to accomplish and they did a good job of it," Sinn said. "We did not play well and they deserved to win," Sinn said.

Northwest's next outing comes Saturday, Jan. 23, when they return to Maryville to play MIAA foe Central Mo.

Bearcat wrestlers on a roll

By John Misfeldt

The Northwest Missouri State wrestling team upped its season dual record to 6-1 with relatively easy match wins over conference foes Northeast Missouri State and Missouri Rolla.

In the first match at 118, Carey Myles of Northwest decided Jeff Braid of Rolla pretty handily 12-5 to give the 'Cats a quick 3-0 lead.

The Bearcats completely outclassed Missouri-Rolla as they rolled to an easy 41-2 win over the Miners.

In the 126 pound division, the 'Cats took a 7-0 lead as Kirk Strand jumped out to an early 5-0 lead in the first period and cruised the rest of the way to a 15-4 win over Greg Schoenberg.

Brad Bales then gave the Bearcats their first pin of the night when he stuck Ed Lamken in the third period giving the 'Cats a 13-0 lead.

Then Dale Crozier followed Bales and recorded a pin of his own. Crozier's pin came in the third period over Bob Schulten in the 142 pound class and the 'Cat's lead jumped to 19-0.

The next match saw Northeast gain their only two points of the night by a tie.

The Bearcats match with Northeast saw two 'Cat wrestlers improve an unblemished and unbeaten streak. Bales ran his streak to six while Glasgow almost doubled that mark as he ran his mark to 11 straight.

Things started gloomy for Northwest, with Myles coming up on the short end of an 11-8 score. Myles went into the last period leading 8-5, but the Bulldogs 118 pounder outscored him 6-0 to win the match.

Strand turned things around with a convincing 13-0 win over Chuck VeDepo in the 126 pound class, thus putting the 'Cats up for good 5-3.

Bales got his sixth pin in as many matches when he stuck Chris Higgins at the 2:25 mark of the first period.

In the 142 pound class, Crozier was leading 10-2 when he pinned his man in the third period.

Burgmeier then got the third of five straight pins for the 'Cats when he pinned Joe Ippilto in the 150 pound class.

Glasgow then earned his 11th win in a row and the fourth straight 'Cat pin as he took care of his man in the third period.

The fifth pin for the Northwest grapplers came when Braden stopped Guy Frazier in the second period.

Paul Burgmeier ended the 'Cats' streak as he was pinned by Tim DeHart at the 1:26 mark of the first period.

Jim Shemwell recorded the fastest pin of the night in the heavyweight division. Shemwell pinned his man with 1:09 gone in the first period.

Coach Gary Collins seemed pleased with the performances of the whole team in both victories.

"I think that we're really starting to develop," Collins said. "Right now we're concerned about developing to the point where we can get some strong scoring in the nationals."

Collins also said that this week would be a good indication of whether or not the 'Cat grapplers can do just that.

The Bearcat wrestlers, who are returning five national qualifiers, will have their work cut out for them when they face Central St. of Okla. then travel to the Springfield Invitational where four of the five top Division II teams and the defending MIAA champions will compete for the crown.

'Kittens Find Winning Ways last week

By Eric Bullock

The Northwest Missouri State University Bearkitten basketball team defeated William Woods on Jan. 16 and upped their overall record to 11-6. "We've been scoring real well lately," said 'Kittens coach Wayne Winstead.

"The game was close in the first half," said assistant coach Gayla Eckoff. "At halftime the score was 40-34 (Northwest). They played us close in the first half, but in the second half they just couldn't keep up with us," said Eckoff. The 'Kittens breezed to a 86-68 win.

One reason for the 'Kittens' success is the scoring of senior forward Jodi Giles. Giles was the game's top scorer with 24 points. Teammates Monica Booth and Diane Kloewer followed with 20 and 14 points respectively. Booth handed out 10 assists in helping the 'Kittens post their 11th win on the season.

On Jan. 13, the 'Kittens knocked off Tarkio College 79-60. After eight minutes of the first period, the score was even at 20. At this point, Booth and Giles took charge and paced the 'Kittens to a 42-24 halftime lead.

In the second half Tarkio challenged the 'Kittens for the lead and moved to within seven points of the 'Kittens' lead. It was as close as the Owls were to get on the night as Giles 31 points lifted the 'Kittens to a victory.

The 31 points scored by Giles tied a NWMSU record set by Janet Cooksey during the 77-78 season. Giles was also the team's top rebounder, grabbing eight on the evening.

Betty Olson scored 20 points and hauled down seven rebounds while teammate Kloewer tossed in 11 points for Northwest.

The 'Kittens' Junior Varsity had a game against the Tarkio club and posted a 63-42 win. "It's been awhile since our JV has played," said Eckoff. "They really did a good job and we are very pleased with them."

Jane Boesen led the JV 'Kittens with 20 points. Jennifer Boddicker hit for 11 points and grabbed nine rebounds while Tracey Linen added 10 points for the winners.

The 'Kittens are back in action on Friday night when they travel to Springfield to take on Evangel College. On Saturday, the 'Kittens will meet Southwest Missouri State University Springfield.

"We expect to win both games if we play the way we are capable of playing," said Winstead.

Just An Opinion.

Mizzou Is For Real!

By Dave Humphries

There was laughter in the college basketball world last week when the Missouri Tigers became the No. 2 ranked team in the country.

On Sunday a television audience and a sellout crowd at St. Louis' Checkerdome found out that Missouri is no joke as the Tigers ripped apart a talented Louisville team 69-55. The win upped Mizzou's record to 14-0 and gave the Tigers their longest winning streak since the 1921-22 season when they started 17-0.

Perhaps Missouri's success can be attributed to their team's balance. Coach Norm Stewart has found a winning combination by filling in last year's gaps with Jr. college transfers. There is no one-man-show on the Tigers, but instead a team of superb players who are talented and poised.

The team's most noted player is 6-foot-6 forward Ricky Frazier. Frazier is the team's offensive leader as well as the club's top scorer. In Sunday's massacre of the Cardinals, Frazier pumped in a game high 22 points. However, more important, the senior was devastating in setting up the fast break and a master at dissecting the Louisville press like a surgeon in the operating room.

Steve Stipanovich is Mizzou's center who at 6-foot-11 controls the backboards and the Tiger's inside game. Stipanovich has done an excellent job this season in keeping the opposition from underneath. With Stipanovich dominating the boards and Frazier running the offense, Mizzou can meet the challenge of any team in the country.

The outside shooting of guards Jon Sunvold and Prince Bridges give the Tigers another offensive dimension. Sunvold's five assists and Bridge's 12 points Sunday helped the Tigers defeat the 17th-ranked Cardinals and help Missouri get revenge from last year's 71-49 Cardinal triumph.

Marvin "Moon" McCary fills in the other starting forward slot. McCary tossed in 11 points for the Tigers on Sunday and helped take some of the defensive pressure off Frazier.

The team's balance doesn't stop with their starters. Mike Walker and Mark Dressler have been coming off the bench and do an outstanding job in their backup roles. Against the Cardinals, Walker provided the theatrics and contributed 14 points to the team's win.

Another important factor that has played a major role in the Tigers' submergence as a national power is their consistency from the free-throw line. The Tigers rank 2nd nationally, shooting 78 percent from the charity line (only Western Illinois ranks higher with 84 percent). In Sunday's game, Mizzou was 27 for 29 from the free throw line with Frazier hitting a perfect 16 out of 16.

Many games are decided from the line and if Missouri continues to shoot with the consistency they now are, a national championship might be nothing to laugh at.

Intramurals going well

By John Milsfeldt

"The Northwest Missouri State University Intramural Program has run smooth this year," said Richard Matzes, assistant director of the Northwest intramural program. "It wasn't easy getting started since this was my first year as assistant director."

Both Matzes and Intramural Director Bob Lade are in their first year of the intramural program. "We got a hold of Doug (Peterson, former director) and he helped us out alot," said Matzes. "Things have been really smooth."

The major problem to Matzes thus far are the injuries sustained by those who participate within the intramural program. "So far we have had a twisted ankle, a cut which required 27 stitches to the face and a serious twisted knee," said Matzes.

All of these accidents have occurred on the basketball court which has shown an enormous increase in participation. This year there are 25 women's teams and 72 men's teams competing.

The winners of the women's Recreational League in the volleyball tourney were the Dirtballs who beat Millikan M&M for the championship. SNAFU finished third in the tourney.

The Knack came out as the champs in the Competitive League by turning back "10", 15-3 and 15-6. LAGNAS took third place honors.

"There will be some tournaments coming up in February and the best way to get information is to check the bulletin board next to the intramural office," said Matzes.

Time out for the coach

Basketball coaches seldom receive the recognition they deserve. When a team loses, it's the coach's fault, when a team is winning, it's often the players who receive the attention.

There has to be a mold behind a team's success, a man who can take a bunch of players and turn them into a power and perhaps into the national rankings. The Northwest Missouri State University Bearcats have just that man in head coach Lionel Sinn. Sinn has studied under the legendary Bobby Knight at Indiana. This year, Sinn has guided the 'Cats to a 13-4 start and a 19th place national ranking.

Sinn served as a graduate assistant to Knight in 1972-73. While there, Sinn said, "I formed many of my coaching philosophies. Bobby Knight is a tremendous teacher and psychologist."

Sinn is in his third year at NWMSU, after leaving Bethel College in McKenzie, Tenn. Sinn was the most winning coach in Bethel basketball history. In 1978, his team was ranked ninth in the NAIA in team defense and 11th in the won-loss percentage.

In his third year at NWMSU, Sinn has established himself with the highest winning percentage since Ryland Milner in 1950.

"The players and coaches have wanted to improve the program over the last few years," Sinn said about NWMSU. "It has put a lot of pressure on us (being ranked in nationals) because people expect us to perform better. That ranking doesn't help us win games though."

Being boisterous is part of the coaching duties, and Sinn is no exception to the rule. He can often be seen pacing the sideline and shouting to his team instructions for plays. He also talks to the officials.

"When I talk with the officials, I am mainly asking them for an explanation," Sinn said. "I'm trying to defend the players and give them a fair shot. Often I am emotionally upset and acting in anger and disgust."

"I think that my talking with referees can be helpful," Sinn said. "It's stimulating to the players and the crowd."

'Cats beat tigers; lose to Rolla

By Dwayne McClellan

Northwest Missouri State University behind the heroics of the "sixth" and "seventh" men Anthony Darby and Tim Shelby took off to a 16 point first half lead and never looked back as they rolled over the Lincoln Blue Tigers 95-64 last Monday night at Jefferson City.

Earlier the 'Cats dropped their first MIAA game to the Missouri-Rolla Miners 76-70 at Rolla in a game that the 'Cats just didn't play well.

The bench roles that have been played by Darby and Shelby have not gone unnoticed by head coach Lionel Sinn as he credits them with providing the spark that the 'Cats have so often needed this year.

"They (Darby and Shelby) have been in circumstances when they are out and they have to come in off the bench," Sinn said. "Some others are starting and they have come off the bench and given us the momentum and the offensive push we have needed," Sinn said.

In the second half of the Lincoln game Shelby was unstoppable as he hit on 13 points on the night. "He was as hot as any player that I've seen in some time," Sinn said. "Darby was almost the same way," the third year coach said.

In the Lincoln game, the Blue Tigers took a 2-0 lead but the 'Cats came back and tied it up at 2-2 and 4-4, then made it a rout as they ran at will against the Blue Tigers.

Northwest opened up their biggest lead of the first half, 43-27, on Darby's bucket at the buzzer. In the second half the 'Cats kept the barrage of points going on as they achieved their biggest lead of 38 points 92-54, with 2:40 left in the game.

Victor Coleman, a 6-4 soph from Danville, Va., shared the games scoring honors for the 'Cats with Phil Smith, a 6-5 senior forward from Cheyenne, Wyo. They each poured in 15 points for the 'Cats. Darby had 13 points.

Smith led the team in rebounds as he pulled down six and hit on six of six shots from the field. Darby hit on six of seven shots while Gordon was five for five.

Lincoln's Blue Tigers were led by Kenny Lewis' 23 points and Avery Gibson with 12 points for the Tigers who drop to 6-6 overall and 0-4 in the MIAA.

As a team the 'Cats hit on 37 of 66 from the field for 56 percent. The 'Cats were 21 for 33 from the charity stripe for a 63 percent. Lincoln outrebounded the 'Cats 55-41 but Northwest committed only seven turnovers to 15 for the Blue Tigers.

With the game against Lincoln, all 12 players were able to see action thus making it difficult for Sinn to pick any one player as they all played well.

"Everybody contributed," Sinn said. "Everybody played hard as we had something to prove to ourselves. Monday night we could have beaten almost anybody," Sinn said.

With the lopsided score, Sinn himself didn't believe the score of the final margin and still wasn't sure of victory until the lead climbed to 20 and above.

"After it got over 20, I felt we had it won," Sinn said. "I really didn't believe it but everything was going well for us then."

Saturday night was a different story for the 'Cats as they just didn't play well and as a result dropped their first league game to the Miners from Rolla.

Before the game with Northwest, Miner coach Billy Key thought that his club would have to play a real hard game in order to win.

"Northwest will be very tough as they have almost everyone back from last year's team," Key said. "They also have one of the biggest teams in the conference, so we will have to work really hard to do a good job on the backboards," Key said.

And work hard they did, as the Miners, behind the MIAA's second leading scorer Rickie Cannon's 23 points, ended the 'Cats five game winning streak with only the fourth Bearcat loss in 16 games.

Rolla broke a 6-6 tie by jumping to a 16-9 lead in the opening minutes, but the 'Cats, led by Gordon rallied to take a 23-18 lead with 4:31 left in the half. Gordonscored eight of his 12 points during the 14-2 Northwest rally. The Miners came back and forged ahead 30-27 at the half.

Northwest fought back to tie the game, 45-45, with 10:35 to go, but UMR countered with hoops by Jeff Davis and Joey McDowell to take a 49-45 lead with 9:42 left and the 'Cats were never able to tie the game up again. Cannon's breakaway layup with 1:28 left gave the Miners their biggest lead, 72-62 and a late 'Cat comeback was a little too late and not enough.

Victor Coleman led the losing cause, as he pumped in 16 points followed closely by Shelby with 14 points. Phil Smith also poured in 10 points to aid the 'Cats.

The 'Cats, led by Shelby's 11 rebounds, did win the rebounding war 40-31 over the Miners.

After Cannon, McDowell and Zol Singelton had 12 points apiece for the Rolla squad. Jeff Davis had 10 points and led his team in rebounds with 11.

The 'Cats hit on 30-63 from the field for 47 percent while Missouri-Rolla hit on 31-56 for 55 percent. At the charity stripe, the 'Cats were 10-18 for 55 percent while the Miners hit on 14-17 for 82 percent.

"Rolla had a mission to accomplish and they did a good job of it," Sinn said. "We did not play well and they deserved to win," Sinn said.

Northwest's next outing comes Saturday, Jan. 23, when they return to Maryville to play MIAA foe Central Mo.

Bearcat wrestlers on a roll

By John Misfeldt

The Northwest Missouri State wrestling team upped its season dual record to 6-1 with relatively easy match wins over conference foes Northeast Missouri State and Missouri Rolla.

In the first match at 118, Carey Myles of Northwest decided Jeff Braid of Rolla pretty handily 12-5 to give the 'Cats a quick 3-0 lead.

The Bearcats completely outclassed Missouri-Rolla as they rolled to an easy 41-2 win over the Miners.

In the 126 pound division, the 'Cats took a 7-0 lead as Kirk Strand jumped out to an early 5-0 lead in the first period and cruised the rest of the way to a 15-4 win over Greg Schoenberg.

Brad Bales then gave the Bearcats their first pin of the night when he stuck Ed Lamken in the third period giving the 'Cats a 13-0 lead.

Then Dale Crozier followed Bales and recorded a pin of his own. Crozier's pin came in the third period over Bob Schulten in the 142 pound class and the 'Cat's lead jumped to 19-0.

The next match saw Northeast gain their only two points of the night by a tie.

The Bearcats match with Northeast saw two 'Cat wrestlers improve an unblemished and unbeaten streak. Bales ran his streak to six while Glasgow almost doubled that mark as he ran his mark to 11 straight.

Things started gloomy for Northwest, with Myles coming up on the short end of an 11-8 score. Myles went into the last period leading 8-5, but the Bulldogs 118 pounder outscored him 6-0 to win the match.

Strand turned things around with a convincing 13-0 win over Chuck VeDepo in the 126 pound class, thus putting the 'Cats up for good 5-3.

Bales got his sixth pin in as many matches when he stuck Chris Higgins at the 2:25 mark of the first period.

In the 142 pound class, Crozier was leading 10-2 when he pinned his man in the third period.

Burgmeier then got the third of five straight pins for the 'Cats when he pinned Joe Ippilto in the 150 pound class.

Glasgow then earned his 11th win in a row and the fourth straight 'Cat pin as he took care of his man in the third period.

The fifth pin for the Northwest grapplers came when Braden stopped Guy Frazier in the second period.

Paul Burgmeier ended the 'Cats' streak as he was pinned by Tim DeHart at the 1:26 mark of the first period.

Jim Shemwell recorded the fastest pin of the night in the heavyweight division. Shemwell pinned his man with 1:09 gone in the first period.

Coach Gary Collins seemed pleased with the performances of the whole team in both victories.

"I think that we're really starting to develop," Collins said. "Right now we're concerned about developing to the point where we can get some strong scoring in the nationals."

Collins also said that this week would be a good indication of whether or not the 'Cat grapplers can do just that.

The Bearcat wrestlers, who are returning five national qualifiers, will have their work cut out for them when they face Central St. of Okla. then travel to the Springfield Invitational where four of the five top Division II teams and the defending MIAA champions will compete for the crown.
